Clayton County Commission Vice Chair Wole Ralph meets with leaders in Washington D.C.

Jonesboro, GA - Clayton County Vice Chair Wole Ralph will join a list of distinguished representatives at the Georgia Chamber of Commerce's annual Washington D.C. Fly-In on September 13-14, 2011. The event allows members of the Chamber's Board of Directors to meet face-to-face with the Georgia Congressional delegation, along with members from the United States House of Representatives Leadership team. The agenda includes an executive briefing featuring House Speaker John Boehner, House Budget Chairman Paul Ryan, and U.S. Senators Saxby Chambliss and Johnny Isakson. The two-day event also includes a reception to offer attendees an opportunity to connect with federal officials and their staffs.

Ralph is a member of the Georgia Chamber of Commerce Board of Directors and serves alongside several notable leaders throughout the state of Georgia. "I continue to focus on building a strong business community in Clayton County," says Ralph. "It is my goal to take every opportunity available to connect Clayton County with leadership from both the state of Georgia and our nation's capital, and to let them know that we take our business very seriously." Ralph will connect with public policy experts to discuss solutions to the serious issues the current economy has presented to the business community in Clayton County.

The Georgia Chamber of Commerce, as the voice of its statewide membership, aggressively advocates the business viewpoint in the shaping of public policy, encouraging ethical business practices and ensuring the state's future as economically prosperous, educationally competitive, and environmentally responsible.
